October 2026 In Review

Current Monthly Distribution: 6.75% p.a. Class F

In October, AP's underwriting team advanced 42 mortgages for $22.7 MM. The Loan-to-Values (LTV) of 58% in October falls well below the fund's 70% target. Mortgage payouts received in the month summed $8.6 MM from 17 mortgages.

AP Capital MIC's 200th consecutive monthly distribution (16 years, 8 months) was made on Monday, November 2nd.

Fund Update

200th Consecutive Monthly Distribution November 1, 2026 marked AP Capital Mortgage Fund's 200th consecutive monthly distribution to shareholders. Since April 2017, when the fund managed 1,100 investor accounts, shareholders enrolled in our Dividend Reinvestment Plan (DRIP) have seen their initial capital double. Furthermore, investors who have remained with the fund since August 2012 or earlier via the DRIP have tripled their initial investment. We remain committed to delivering steady, risk-adjusted returns and consistent distributions in the months ahead.

Portfolio Performance and Credit Quality Mortgage payment performance across the portfolio remained resilient from January through October 2026. As of November 1, foreclosures stood at 2.38%, remaining well below the fund's 10-year historical average of 4.20%. Borrowers continue to meet their scheduled payment obligations, with no early indicators of elevated default risk across the portfolio. This stability is a direct result of our underwriting team's disciplined focus on borrower quality and rigorous due diligence over the past decade.

Consistent income generation and reliable shareholder distributions begin at origination. By maintaining strict underwriting standards, AP Capital continues to protect investor capital and sustain our track record of uninterrupted monthly cash and DRIP distributions.

Thank you for your continued trust and partnership. We look forward to updating you again next month.
